BUNGE

Producers’ Choice

Choose when to participate in the market, when to price.

How it works

- With Producers’ Choice, you deliver grain at your convenience and establish an initial Producers’ Choice price. Select a target for your final Producers’ Choice price and set downside risk protection.
- Participate in price movement, up or down, throughout the contract and price out, creating a Final Producers’ Choice price, at any time prior to expiration.
- Any equity received will be based on the difference between the initial Producers’ Choice price and the final Producers’ Choice price.

What are the advantages?

- Convenience to deliver grain when needed
- Ability to choose when to participate in the market
- Opportunity to participate in any market movement after delivery
- Potential to increase the contract price
- Advance up to 70% of cash contract upon delivery

What should you know?

- There is flexibility to reprice this contract up to three times.
